

16 November 2016

Dear Member,

Lunchtime Webinar on 17 January, 2017 at 12.00 pm, Noon (UK time)

The CLA will be holding a lunchtime webinar on Tuesday 17 January from 12.00 to 1.30pm (1.00 to 2.30pm Continental time).

We are delighted to announce that this event will be held jointly with The International League of Competition Law (LIDC) and Association Française d'Etude de la Concurrence (AFEC).

In light of the deadline for implementing the Directive on antitrust damages actions, Elizabeth Jordan, Florence Ninane and Sarah Beeston have kindly agreed to speak on the following subject:

“Recent Developments in Private Actions: the perspective from the UK, Netherlands and France”

Muriel Chagny (Moderator) is a Law Professor at the Paris-Saclay University in France where she is director of the Competition and Contract Law Masters. She teaches Competition Law, particularly in conjunction with contract and tort law with a focus on new technologies, and also French and European contract law. She is General Rapporteur of AFEC. She was appointed as a member of the Commission in charge of examining commercial practices in 2013 and renewed in 2016. She has recently written a book on Competition damages resulting from infringements of Competition Law.

Elizabeth Jordan is a Counsel at Linklaters LLP within its Competition Litigation team. She has wide-ranging experience advising corporates and financial institutions on contentious matters, particularly in relation to competition and EU law issues. Elizabeth has extensive experience in the conduct of competition litigation before both the English High Court and Competition Appeal Tribunal. She also regularly advises clients in connection with competition investigations.

Florence Ninane is a Partner at Allen & Overy LLP and based in its Paris Office. Florence has significant experience in the areas of French and European competition law (mergers, anti-trust and state aid issues) and has developed a specific expertise in distribution law matters. She regularly assists companies with their French, EU and multi-jurisdictional merger notifications. She also represents companies in competition law litigation before Competition authorities and national courts (cartel investigations, abuse of dominance, State aid and private enforcement).
